Staudenmaier Honored for 50 Years in Banking

In recognition of her years of extraordinary service to the banking industry, Mary L. Staudenmaier, Chairman of the Board at The Stephenson National Bank & Trust (SNBT), has been inducted into the Wisconsin Bankers Association's 50 Year Club.

Staudenmaier has worked her way through the ranks during her 50 years in the banking profession. She began her distinguished career as a part-time teller after receiving her bachelor's degree from Mount Mary College in 1960. She went on to work full-time in the trust department at The First Wisconsin Trust Company. While there, she decided to pursue a law degree at Marquette University Law School, which she earned in 1971. During law school she continued to garner experience in the Trust business, beginning at First Wisconsin and then at American City Bank and Trust in Milwaukee. Following graduation she continued as Trust Officer then Vice President at The American City. When it was time to form the trust department at Stephenson National, she got permission to take time off from her job at American City to attend monthly Board meetings at SNBT after her election to the Board of Directors in1973.

In 1975, Staudenmaier left American City to become Vice President of Heritage Trust Company, where she worked until moving to Marinette in 1977. At that time, she was hired full time to run the Trust Department at SNBT. She was elected President in 1979. In 2000, she transitioned to SNBT Chairman as she retired from active management, turning that over to John Reinke who succeeded her as SNBT President.

"Mary has had a major impact on the success of SNBT and we are grateful for her tireless service," said Reinke. "Under Mary's leadership the bank grew from $27 million in assets to its current $750 million."
