Three SNBT Bankers Graduate from Consumer Credit School

Three bankers from The Stephenson National Bank & Trust (SNBT) graduated from the Consumer Credit School in June at St. Norbert College, they are: Diane Gromoske, Personal Banker; Lisa Beattie, Personal Banker; and Susie Fiore, Loan Processor.

Sponsored by the Wisconsin Bankers Association, the curriculum was designed to provide bankers with the opportunity to broaden their understanding of consumer credit as an integral part of retail banking.

During this intensive, one-week functional school, they received in-depth training on all facets of the consumer lending process with an emphasis on direct lending, regulations, and compliance; culminating with a final exam.

The faculty was comprised of a mix of industry leaders from around the state. As authorities in their respective fields, their lectures provided technical knowledge and current information pertaining to the ever-changing and complex banking environment.

“Every member of our team at SNBT plays a key role of enhancing the level of service we provide to the community. Through this specialized training, these individuals are even better prepared to help make SNBT a stronger community bank in terms of how we offer our products, how we respond to our customers’ needs, and how we adjust to the changes in the banking industry,” said Jeff Myster, SNBT Vice President and Retail Manager. “They are a fine example of the commitment to higher education sought by SNBT for our employees. With professionally trained individuals such as Diane, Lisa, and Susie, SNBT has become recognized as a leader in exceptional financial services in our community.”
