

Jeans for Greens at SNBT

Employees at The Stephenson National Bank & Trust (SNBT) dressed down for a good cause throughout 2018. On the last Friday of every month, SNBT employees have been given the option to ‘dress down’ by wearing their favorite blue jeans and making personal donations to support important local organizations.

A different community organization was chosen each month to donate the funds to, allowing the SNBT employees to contribute to a variety of worthy associations throughout our local area.

“SNBT employees are always looking for ways to give back to the communities that we have served for so many years,” said Kathleen Bergquist, SVP Chief Human Resources Officer. “The ‘Jeans for Greens’ program was developed for just that reason, to give back to organizations in our communities that require assistance meeting their needs, while having a little fun with casual attire.”

The program has been well received by SNBT employees and customers. The employees enjoy making a difference every day by working hard to make SNBT “My Bank for Good.” Participating in “Jeans for Greens” is just one of the many ways the employees are successful in achieving that objective.

Throughout 2018, SNBT employees paid a total of $3,155 to 12 different organizations including: Crivitz Area Women’s Club – Back to School Program, CASA Marinette, CASA Menominee, Camp Daniel, Marinette Senior Center, Menominee Water Rescue, Menominee County Library, Oconto New Beginnings Resale & Employment Center, Oconto Area Humane Society, Pembine Area Christians – After School Program Youth Center, Suicide Prevention Network, and Wausaukee Back to School Program.
